Dr. Daniel Lake, Ph.D

Political Science Department

speaking on

“The War in Ukraine - A Political-Military Analysis”

The invasion of Ukraine by Russia that began on February 24 has triggered a transformational moment in international politics. By challenging the very legitimacy of the rules-based international constructed after World War II, and then failing so miserably, Vladimir Putin has managed to revitalize the "West" and reinforce the importance of American leadership. In this presentation, Dr. Daniel Lake will discuss why President Putin ordered the invasion of Ukraine, why this has turned out so badly for him, and what recent developments indicate about how this is likely to turn out.

This presentation will be recorded and available for viewing on April 6.
