Migrations at the northern border

Liz Onasch and Amy Mountcastle will discuss their ongoing work on migration at the northern border and community responses, We'll look at the current situation, review policy decisions of the U.S. and Canada, and consider further directions on the project.

Research with Greek Women Activist and Immigrant Care Workers

Throughout my career, my research has focused largely on marginalized, although not marginal populations--from Greek women WWII Resistance fighters to Chilean exiles. For this Spotlight, I'll share my most recent ethnographic research in Greece working with women political activists and immigrant care workers.
