featuring guest speakers Amy Godine and Amy Robinson

Unseen, Unheard, Unrecognized!

Black women pioneers in the 19th century Adirondacks

Amy Godine is an independent scholar who has been speaking on social trends, marginalized communities and ethnic and Black neighborhoods in the Adirondacks since 1988. In her book, The Black Woods: Pursuing Racial Justice on the Adirondack Frontier, she shares stories of Black women pioneers who built fresh lives in the antebellum Adirondack settlements of Timbuctoo, Freeman's Home, Blacksville, Franklin, and St. Armand.

Fighting for Freedom, Human Rights, & Climate Justice

Amy Robinson is the educational director of John Brown Lives!. JBL! is an organization built to honor abolitionist John Brown's legacy and actions in bringing an end to slavery, as well as to follow in his footsteps in promoting social justice and human rights through activism, awareness, and individual action.
